Russo Insurance Agency business model is built on Relationships and Trust. We like to say, “Get to know us before you need us”. Families and business owners are entrusting their most valuable assets to be insured against life calamities. To do this properly requires more than a “Quote”. People need to know what they are insuring but more importantly what is not insured. When you consider that you are entrusting everything you have worked so hard to achieve or acquire it is important that you take the time to know your insurance professional.

Regardless, whether you are starting life’s journey, a hard working tax paying citizen or a well traveled senior citizen, you need to be concerned about adequate and proper insurance coverage to protect your assets and future earnings. If you don’t want to start all over after one of life’s calamities, whether you are at fault or you are the innocent victim, then you want to talk with us first. Like we said in the beginning, “Get to know us before you need us”.
